Using Social Media in the Classroom

USING SOCIAL MEDIA RESPONSIBLY AND TEACHING DIGITAL CITIZENSHIP

Annette Breaux says...

What works in your classroom...

- Post like your parents are watching...
- Post as if your coach, priest, pastor, Principal, boss are watching...
- Post/blog for publication in your favorite magazine, on your favorite website, etc.

AMAZING IMPACT ON STUDENTS...

- <https://youtu.be/32ptr5d2rw8>

OTHER AMAZING USES FOR SOCIAL MEDIA IN THE CLASSROOM

The old way...

- Classroom newsletters
- Debate
- Field trip
- Assessing student knowledge
- “What did you learn in school today?” Nothing

The new way...

- Class blog
- Use a # to debate with another school
- Virtual field trip
- Students respond via Twitter!
- “How was your lesson on Sacajawea?” GREAT! How did you know?
- podcasting...Intro podcast
- student podcasting...On student's desires...

ESPECIALLY HELPFUL...

- If you are a “singleton”
 - The only music teacher
 - The only art teacher
 - The only phys ed teacher
 - The only Principal
 - The only Superintendent
- If you are...
 - Seeking innovative teaching ideas for your classroom
 - Seeking classroom management strategies
 - Looking to collaborate with others

SOCIAL MEDIA DATA

- In 2012, 49% of adults reported seeing news on social media
- In 2016, 62% of adults got their news on social media
- ~Pew Research Center, Journalism and Media, May, 2016

THE NEXT CHAPTER...

- Other cool stuff you can do...
 - Attach video
 - Attach slide presentation
 - Attach “Google Forms” survey
 - Attach a blog
 - Attach almost anything you can think of!

NATIONAL PRINCIPALS CONFERENCE

Connecting Positive Climate, Culture, and Community

Monday, July 10
3:45 PM - 5:00 PM
Room: 204C

Lead Learners: Creating a Culture of Empathy, Innovation, and Empowerment

Primary Presenter:
Joe Mazza, Ed.D.
University of Pennsylvania

Co-Presenter:
Derek L. McCoy, M.Ed
Rowan-Salisbury Schools

Learn how these two mid-career educators have personally taken control of their learning as "lead learners," and are now shaping a culture of empathy, innovation and empowerment inside their respective K-12 and higher ed. This session is highly interactive, and aimed to strengthen the network of each learner attending.
